Does this page use tables? If so, for what purpose (page layout, organization of information, or another reason)?

There are tables on this site, and there are titles and movie pictures that lead to the necessary information about the movie. It is also in history.

Does this page use CSS? If so, for what purpose (page layout, text and color configuration, or another reason)?

Of course, as in every web page, the css on this site is included. The purpose of use on this site is the same as on other sites; coloring, resizing tables, images, titles, etc.

Is this page appealing or unappealing? List three reasons for your answer.

I don't think it's attractive enough because there is no color match and the sizing is terrible..

If this page is unappealing, what would you do to improve it?

I make the site more attractive to the user with the necessary colors and animations. I would reconfigure the sizing.
